1 I, Kimberly Custer, declare:

2 1. I am the Executive Vice President of the Health Care Division for Planned
3 Parenthood Federation of America, Inc. (“PPFA”).

4 2. This declaration is based on my personal knowledge, a review of PPFA’s business
5 records, and the knowledge I have acquired in the course of my two decades of service and duties 6 with PPFA and several Planned Parenthood affiliates. If called and sworn as a witness, I could 7 and would testify competently thereto.

8 3. As discussed more fully below, the final rules on exemptions to contraceptive access 9 issued by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, U.S. Department of Labor and 10 U.S. Department of Treasury on November 7, 2018 and published in the Federal Register on 11 November 15, 2018 (Exemption Rules) would have devastating consequences for women across 12 the United States who rely on Planned Parenthood. That is because the Exemption Rules would 13 cause women across the country to lose access to contraceptive services without cost-sharing, as 14 required under the Affordable Care Act (ACA). Women would then be forced to pay out-of-15 pocket for those services, or if they qualify, to seek out other low-cost (although in most cases 16 likely not no-cost) ways to access preventive health care. This will take resources away from 17 programs designed for people without private insurance and will mean that many women will end 18 up with less access to care.

19 I. Employment and education background

20 4. I received a B.A. from the University of Oregon. After holding a series of 21 management positions in the private sector, I began my work at Planned Parenthood in 1997 as a 22 Vice President for Community Affairs of a Planned Parenthood affiliate. In 2004, I accepted a 23 position as the President and CEO for Planned Parenthood of North East Pennsylvania and I 24 served as a CEO of a Planned Parenthood affiliate for more than a decade.

25 5. In 2015, I joined PPFA as the Executive Vice President of the Health Care Division
26 of PPFA. My responsibilities include overseeing all health care programs for PPFA, including 27 medical services, health education, health care operations, business analytics, accreditation, and 28 evaluation for PPFA’s affiliates.

1 II. Planned Parenthood and the Delivery of Health Care

2 6. PPFA is a membership organization, with 55 affiliate organizations. PPFA's mission 3 is to provide comprehensive reproductive health care services, to provide educational programs 4 relating to reproductive and sexual health, and to advocate for public policies to ensure access to 5 health services. PPFA itself does not provide healthcare, but it provides support, leadership, and 6 guidance to its affiliates, which provide health care and educational services directly to the public.
7 PPFA also works to promote research and the advancement of technology in reproductive health 8 care.

9 7. For more than a century, millions of women and men have turned to Planned 10 Parenthood for vital health care services, sex education, and sexual health information. Our 11 skilled health care professionals are dedicated to offering all people high-quality, affordable 12 medical care.

13 8. Planned Parenthood affiliates are separately incorporated and independent non-profit 14 corporations, each with its own governance structure, including a board of directors. Each 15 Planned Parenthood affiliate provides health care and educational services directly to the public in 16 a distinct geographic area. Some affiliates have health centers in multiple states; others have 17 health centers in two or more states. Moreover, each health center, depending on where it is 18 located, may serve patients from several states. For example, Planned Parenthood affiliates 19 operate health centers in cities like Chicago, Cincinnati, Kansas City, Memphis, Minneapolis, 20 Pittsburgh, Spokane, St. Louis, Tallahassee, and others which are close to the state border.

21 9. Planned Parenthood affiliates operate more than 600 health centers located in 48 22 states and the District of Columbia which provide services to patients in all 50 states and the 23 District of Columbia, serving millions of women and men each year. An estimated one out of 24 every five women nationally has received care from Planned Parenthood at least once in her life.
25 Planned Parenthood affiliates play a particularly important role in providing reproductive and 26 other health care to women and men with low-incomes.

27 10. All Planned Parenthood affiliates offer a wide range of family planning services and 28 reproductive health care, although the specific services that Planned Parenthood affiliates offer

1 vary depending on the needs of the communities in which they operate and the resources
2 available. All Planned Parenthood affiliates provide contraceptive counseling and contraception
3 (including long-acting reversible contraceptives (“LARCs”)); other services generally include 4 physical exams, clinical breast exams, screening for cervical cancer, testing and treatment for 5 sexually transmitted infections (“STIs”), pregnancy testing and counseling, vasectomies, 6 colposcopies, abortion, and health education services.

7 11. Between October 1, 2015 and September 30, 2016, Planned Parenthood affiliates 8 provided approximately 9,500,000 clinical services to approximately 2,400,000 patients. Those 9 patients visited Planned Parenthood health centers 4,000,000 times for care. Planned Parenthood 10 provided contraceptives to more than 1,800,000 patients, and it is estimated that these services 11 averted nearly 400,000 unintended pregnancies.

12 12. Our affiliates also administered more than 660,000 cancer screenings and prevention 13 procedures, including 335,000 breast exams and 280,000 Pap tests (cervical screens). They 14 performed nearly 4,400,000 STI tests, including HIV screenings, and diagnosed nearly 225,000
15 STIs.

16 13. PPFA affiliates have a special mission to provide high-quality, life-saving health care 17 and medical treatment to historically underserved patients and communities. In many 18 communities, a Planned Parenthood health center is the only place that a patient can turn to for 19 high-quality, compassionate, and low-cost (or free) reproductive health care. Fifty-four percent of 20 Planned Parenthood health centers are in Health Professional Shortage Areas (or HPSAs)—as 21 designated by the Health Resources and Services Administration, an agency of the U.S.
22 Department of Health and Human Services—and/or in rural or other Medically Underserved
23 Areas (or MUAs).¹

26 ¹ Health Professional Shortage Areas are designated as having shortages of primary 27 medical care, dental, or mental health providers. Medically Underserved Areas have a shortage of 28 primary care health services for residents within a geographic area. Another designation, Medically Underserved Populations (or MUPs), concerns specific sub-groups of people living in a designated geographic area with a shortage of primary care health services; these groups may face economic, cultural, or linguistic barriers to health care.

1 14. Seventy-three percent of Planned Parenthood patients who reported their incomes 2 have incomes at or below 150 percent of the federal poverty level.

3 15. As a recent study shows, in 57 percent of the counties with a Planned Parenthood
4 health center in 2015, Planned Parenthood served at least half of all safety-net family planning
5 patients (i.e., patients who rely on free or reduced-fee services to obtain their reproductive health 6 care).²

7 16. Planned Parenthood health centers play a critical role in serving communities of color 8 and in many cases are the only health centers providing reproductive health care in such 9 communities. Approximately 27 percent of Planned Parenthood's patients are Latino/a, 17
10 percent are Black, and 11 percent are Native American, Asian, or Multiracial. In recent years, 11 Planned Parenthood has served an increasing number of patients in these groups, demonstrating 12 Planned Parenthood's increasingly important role in serving communities of color.

13 17. Planned Parenthood patients rely on a variety of sources of funding in accessing our 14 services, including Medicaid, the Title X program, state family planning programs, private 15 insurance, or paying out-of-pocket.

16 III. The Effect of the Exemption Rules

17 18. It is my understanding that the ACA requires that most private insurance plans cover 18 certain preventive health care services without patient cost-sharing and that the women's 19 preventive services requirement, as it should, includes contraception and contraceptive 20 counseling.³ Contraceptive care is an essential preventive health care service. It helps to avoid 21 unintended pregnancies and to promote healthy birth spacing, resulting in improved maternal,

25 ³ See 42 U.S.C. § 300gg-13(a)(4) (specifying that insurance providers "shall not impose
26 any cost sharing requirements . . . with respect to women, [for] such additional preventive care

1 child, and family health.⁴ Contraceptive care also results in other health benefits, including 2 reduced menstrual bleeding and pain, and decreased risk of endometrial and ovarian cancer.⁵

3 19. As a result of the ACA, women are able to access contraception services seamlessly 4 through their existing health plans at no cost—an important factor that has an impact on 5 contraceptive method choice and use. Prior to the ACA, 1 in 7 women with private health 6 insurance either postponed or went without needed health care services because they could not 7 afford them.⁶ Those who could purchase contraception were spending between 30 percent and 44 8 percent of their total annual out-of-pocket health care costs to that end,⁷ and women were more 9 likely to forego more effective long-acting reversible contraceptive (LARC) methods (such as 10 intrauterine devices) due to upfront costs.⁸

11 20. As a result of the requirement, more than 62 million women now have access to 12 contraceptive services without cost-sharing.⁹ Out-of-pocket spending on contraception has 13 decreased, and more women are choosing to use LARC methods.¹⁰ In addition, the percentage of 14 pregnancies that are unintended in the United States is at a 30-year low.¹¹

15 21. The Exemption Rules threatens to undermine this progress because it would allow 16 any employer or university to opt out of the existing accommodation process and leave their

1 employees or students with no mechanism for seamless contraceptive coverage through a third-
2 party private insurer. Women who have private insurance that covers other preventive health care 3 with no-cost sharing will be forced to pay out-of-pocket for that care, or go without. Women are 4 not faced with this choice for any other preventive services required by the ACA. As a trusted 5 provider of quality and affordable reproductive health care, many of those women will turn to 6 Planned Parenthood for care.

7 22. The Exemption Rules will negatively impact Planned Parenthood patients nationwide
8 in several ways. First, some of our patients with private insurance will no longer have that 9 coverage. While we will work to continue to provide care to those patients, at least some of them
10 will have to pay a portion or the full cost for services that the ACA guaranteed would be available
11 without cost-sharing. Only 29 states have laws that require insurance coverage of all FDA-12 approved prescription contraceptive drugs and devices, and only 10 of these state laws prohibit 13 cost-sharing for contraceptives. Additionally, these laws apply only to health insurance plans that 14 are subject to state regulation and not to the millions of women with insurance coverage through 15 self-insured plans, which are typically offered by large employers, that are subject only to federal 16 regulation under the Employee Retirement Income Security Act (ERISA).¹² These women will, 17 therefore, likely need to pay out of pocket for contraception and, therefore, more will likely 18 choose less effective methods or otherwise ration their care.

19 23. Second, many of these women will not qualify for government-subsidized programs
20 such as Title X or a state family planning program. These programs are intended to provide health 21 care for individuals with low incomes and most women covered under the ACA's birth control
22 benefit will not qualify for these programs. Even for those women who may qualify, safety net 23 programs are not intended as a substitute for employer-sponsored coverage. The budgets for such 24 safety net programs are under threat of being drastically cut, and having to provide women with 25 private insurance with services through these programs undermines the purpose of these programs 26 and threatens to take resources away from the individuals with low incomes these programs are

1 meant to serve. Moreover, states that are willing and able to make sure that women can access 2 this care will have to divert resources away from other services they could be providing.

3 24. Third, the loss in access to no-cost contraceptive coverage will put these women at 4 greater risk of unintended pregnancies and other health problems, the costs of which will be borne 5 by these women and their families, safety-net providers like Planned Parenthood, and state and 6 local government entities.

7 25. For all of these reasons, the Exemption Rules should not be allowed to take effect.

8 I declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct and of my own 9 personal knowledge.

10 Executed on December 19, 2018, in New York, NY.
