DECLARATION OF MELISSA
 MARSHALL, MD IN SUPPORT OF A MOTION FOR A PRELIMINARY INJUNCTION

Date: April 18, 2019
 Time: 12:30 p.m.
 Dept: Courtroom 5, 17th Floor
 Judge: The Honorable Edward M.
 Chen
 Trial Date: Not set
 Action Filed: March 4, 2019

1 I, Melissa Marshall, declare and state as follows:

2 1. I am the Chief Executive Officer (“CEO”) of CommuniCare Health Centers
3 (“CommuniCare”) in Yolo County, California. I have worked at CommuniCare for almost four 4 years. I make this declaration in support of Plaintiffs’ Motion for a Preliminary Injunction in the 5 above-captioned matter. I have personal knowledge of the facts stated herein and, if called as a 6 witness, I would testify competently thereto.

7 2. In addition to serving as CommuniCare’s CEO, I am a practicing physician. I 8 earned my medical degree from the Washington University School of Medicine in Saint Louis 9 and completed a residency at the University of California at Davis Medical School. I am board-10 certified in family medicine and have been practicing medicine for over 17 years. I provide 11 patients with comprehensive family planning services and refer patients for additional specialty 12 services, such urology, cardiology, radiology, optometry, and podiatry. I typically treat between 13 300 and 500 patients per year, including patients from the Title-X-funded clinic described below.

14 3. CommuniCare is a nonprofit corporation licensed as a community clinic and has 15 been a Federally Qualified Health Center since 2007. CommuniCare is a NCQA-recognized<sup>1</sup> 16 Level 3 Patient-Centered Medical Home that provides quality medical, dental, mental health, and 17 substance use services at our clinic sites, which are geographically distributed throughout Yolo 18 County. In fact, we provide health care services to almost one in every eight residents of Yolo 19 County. Since 1972, CommuniCare has continuously provided high quality health care for the 20 culturally diverse, low income, uninsured and underinsured residents of our service area.

21 4. In 2017, CommuniCare served over 26,000 patients—nearly 80 percent of whom 22 live on income below the federal poverty level. The population we serve includes many people in 23 rural areas and is racially, ethnically, and culturally diverse. Nearly 60% of the population we 24 serve identifies as non-white and over 35% speak a language other than English at home.

1           5.       CommuniCare receives Title X funding through Plaintiff Essential Access Health.
2 CommuniCare has been part of Essential Access's Title X network since 1993.<sup>2</sup> CommuniCare
3 meets the sexual and reproductive health care needs of all patients through education, prevention 4 (routine physical exams, screening for preventable diseases, immunizations, and health 5 counseling), early detection (routine cancer, screening, STI testing and treatment), contraceptive 6 management, pregnancy testing and neutral, non-directive pregnancy options counseling, 7 emergency contraception, and obstetric/gynecological services.

8           6.       CommuniCare provides clinical sexual and reproductive health services at three 9 health centers, two satellite clinics operating at high schools, a student health services site at a 10 community college, and two perinatal satellite clinics.

11           7.       CommuniCare also provides many other (non-clinical) sexual and reproductive 12 health services in the community, including sexual and reproductive health education and 13 outreach in residential drug treatment facilities, migrant camps, juvenile detention centers, health 14 fairs and community events. CommuniCare also teaches comprehensive sexual and reproductive 15 health education, in compliance with the California Healthy Youth Act, to Yolo County middle 16 and high schools. (This law requires school districts to provide students with integrated, 17 comprehensive, accurate, and unbiased comprehensive sexual health and HIV prevention 18 education at least once in middle school and once in high school.) CommuniCare's certified 19 health educators also offer office hours at area high schools, support community events, and do 20 outreach on social media.

21           8.       CommuniCare served 4,081 Title X patients in 2017, primarily through the drop-in 22 healthcare clinic for teens. In 2018, CommuniCare served 3,622 Title X patients. The majority of 23 CommuniCare's Title X patients are low-income. Over 80% of CommuniCare's Title X patients 24 in 2018 had income under the federal poverty level. Nearly one third were 19 years old or 25 younger. CommuniCare's Title X patients included homeless individuals, individuals with 26 substance abuse issues, individuals with disabilities, and limited English proficiency speakers.

27
28 _____

1           9.       In 2018, the Title X population received 1,000 Pap tests for cervical cancer 2 screening, nearly 1,000 clinical breast exams, and more than 8,300 tests for sexually-transmitted
3 infections. CommuniCare strives to meet patient needs immediately. For example, if a patient 4 wants an intrauterine device (“IUD”) and it is clinically appropriate, CommuniCare may provide 5 it at that same visit. (This is consistent with the Center for Disease Control’s Quality Family 6 Planning recommendations.)

7           10.       Each year, Title X funds allow CommuniCare to run its teen health clinic, provide 8 education and outreach in Yolo County communities, and deliver sexual and reproductive health 9 services to patients of reproductive age. Title X funds support treatment for approximately 3,000 10 patients a year. Of those, approximately 2,000 (1,882 in 2018) were young people seen through 11 the teen clinic. Many of these teen clinic patients subsequently visit CommuniCare for general 12 healthcare. In 2018, Title X funds also made it possible to teach 4,382 public school students 13 comprehensive sexual health education.

14           11.       In 2018, CommuniCare received approximately $177,580 in Title X funding.<sup>3</sup> As a 15 sub-recipient of Essential Access, CommuniCare has been audited by Essential Access staff.
16 Essential Access staff perform site visits every three years to ensure that Title X funds are 17 correctly managed and disbursed. CommuniCare uses Title X funds to support its clinical staff, 18 family planning services, and public education and outreach projects.

19           12.       As mentioned above, I see patients regularly, including through our Title-X-20 funded services. I have an obligation to provide unbiased options counseling to all my patients.
21 Unbiased options counseling is also known as nondirective counseling. “Unbiased options 22 counseling” or “nondirective counseling” means that when I counsel a patient, I set aside any of 23 my own biases and do not push the patient in a particular direction. Rather, I encourage the 24 patient to talk freely. This counseling requires that I provide my patients with all the relevant 25 information that I can, that I answer questions, and that I provide medical information and

1 guidance. I must present my patients with a full range of treatment options. But I do not steer the 2 patient down a specific path nor interfere with the patient's autonomy.

3 13. When I see a pregnant patient who chooses to continue the pregnancy, I coordinate 4 with CommuniCare's award-winning, nationally recognized Perinatal Program.<sup>4</sup> If a pregnant 5 patient wants or needs to terminate the pregnancy, I provide a referral for the patient. In some 6 cases, I may determine that it is medically advisable to terminate the pregnancy, particularly 7 when the life of the mother is at risk. Potentially life-threatening conditions include 8 decompensated cardiac conditions, renal failure, and some untreated cancers. In other instances, 9 pregnancy may be especially risky because of the ways in which it can exacerbate existing 10 medical conditions such as heart disease, hypertension, diabetes, sickle cell anemia, cancer, or 11 AIDS, and I must advise patients accordingly. In these circumstances especially, nondirective 12 options counseling is an essential part of my practice and ensures my patients' health and well-13 being.

14 14. Furthermore, I must provide enough information for my patients to exercise 15 informed consent. I am also a provider under California's family planning services program
16 Family PACT and Medi-Cal – so I am also subject to an agreement to abide by California law 17 and adhere to Family PACT's minimum clinical standards. I also have professional and ethical 18 obligations to provide transparent and comprehensive medical information and guidance. I honor 19 and support my patients' autonomy. Patients are entitled to ask questions about recommended 20 treatments so that they can carefully consider decisions about their care. I provide accurate and 21 complete factual information, including information about referrals, and as a doctor I have a legal, 22 ethical, and moral obligation to do so.

23 15. There are many ethical recommendations that govern my provision of family 24 planning services. For example, in 2014, the Center for Disease Control (CDC) published 25 Providing Quality Family Planning Services: Recommendations of CDC and the U.S. Office of 26

27 <sup>4</sup> CommuniCare's Perinatal Program includes comprehensive services for prenatal and 28 postpartum care. Our program is run by Certified Nurse Midwives who collaborate with physicians and others to provide holistic maternity care. Our Midwives have a collaborative practice with a nearby hospital. In 2017, 619 patients gave birth through the Perinatal Program.

1 Population Affairs (“QFP”), which “describes the scope of services that should be offered in a 2 family planning visit, and how to provide those services . . . .”<sup>5</sup> These QFP recommendations 3 explain throughout that providers such as myself should follow the “recommendations of major 4 professional medical organizations, such as the American College of Obstetricians and 5 Gynecologists (ACOG).”<sup>6</sup> With respect to pregnancy tests, the QFP recommendations provide 6 that I should present results to my patient and then “discuss[] . . . options and appropriate 7 referrals.”<sup>7</sup> The recommendations also explain that this “[o]ptions counseling should be provided 8 in accordance with recommendations from professional medical associations, such as ACOG . . .
 9 .” ACOG, in turn, explains that “[h]ealth care providers must impart accurate and unbiased 10 information so that patients can make informed decisions about their health care. They must 11 disclose scientifically accurate and professionally accepted characterizations of health care
 12 services.”<sup>8</sup> ACOG further explains that physicians such as myself “have the duty to refer patients 13 in a timely manner to other providers” if we feel that we cannot provide the reproductive services 14 our patients request.<sup>9</sup> As a physician, family medicine doctor, and CEO of an FQHC, I remain 15 current on all of these guidelines to the best of my ability. Especially given the above 16 recommendations and standards, among others, I understand that it is my legal, medical, and 17 ethical obligation to provide an accurate, complete, and timely referral to a patient who requests 18 one when it is medically warranted.

19         16. In many cases, my patients have had negative interactions with the healthcare 20 system in the past. Most of my patients also face one or more challenges—low income levels, 21 linguistic barriers, behavioral health issues, substance use—and many have experienced trauma.
 22 My patients are often afraid to speak openly. To care effectively for them, I must build trust and 1 ensure that they are comfortable sharing their concerns with me. If a patient were to detect any 2 hint of being judged, maligned, or misled, it would unravel my relationship with that patient, 3 undermining my effectiveness as a healthcare provider.

4 17. I am familiar with the final rule “Compliance with Statutory Program Integrity 5 Requirements” (the “New Rule”), published in the Federal Register on March 4, 2019. If the 6 Department of Health and Human Services (“HHS”) implements the New Rule on Title X, I will 7 be faced with a Hobson’s choice: continue to provide services at a Title X-funded health care 8 center and violate my medical and ethical duties, or no longer accept Title X funding.
9 Specifically, if HHS implemented the New Rule and CommuniCare continued to receive Title X 10 funding, I could not provide family planning services in an ethical manner. As a clinician, I am 11 obligated to provide unbiased options counseling – and the New Rule would prevent me from 12 doing so at a Title-X-funded healthcare center. The New Rule would interfere with my 13 communications with patients, preventing me from presenting a full range of treatment options. It 14 would also restrict my ability to provide full disclosures to my patients regarding all relevant 15 information on their health care decisions. In this regard, the New Rule violates the principles of 16 informed consent and the ethical standards to which I am bound as a health care professional.
17 Ultimately, the New Rule would erect unreasonable barriers to my patients’ ability to obtain 18 appropriate medical care, impede my patients’ timely access to health care services, and limit the 19 availability of health care treatment for the duration of my patients’ medical needs.

20 18. Under the New Rule, I would be required to refer all pregnant patients to “a health 21 care provider for medically necessary prenatal health care,” 42 CFR § 59.14(b), regardless of 22 their circumstances.<sup>10</sup> As an initial matter, prenatal health care is not medically necessary when a 23 patient is terminating her pregnancy. (Moreover, requiring a patient who wishes to terminate her 24 pregnancy to seek prenatal care delays the treatment she seeks.) If a pregnant patient that I see 25 does not want to, or medically should not continue a pregnancy, I would be violating my ethical, 26

27 _____
28 <sup>10</sup> Ambiguous exceptions to the general prohibition on referral are discussed in paragraphs 19 and 21, below.

1 legal, and moral obligations if I referred her to prenatal care. This mandatory referral to prenatal 2 care strips my patients of their autonomy – and it strips me of my professional judgment.

3 19. The New Rule claims that I may “discuss abortion” in providing “[n]ondirective 4 pregnancy counseling.” Id. § 59.14(b)(1). But it does not explain how I can do so without running 5 afoul of the broader prohibition on “promot[ing]” or “encourag[ing]” abortion. Id. § 59.14(a). In 6 that respect, the Rule’s allowance for “[n]ondirective pregnancy counseling” is illusory—the only 7 “discussion” of abortion the Rule clearly allows is telling a patient that abortion is not a “method 8 of family planning.” Id. § 59.14(d)(5). Additionally, given these contradictory provisions, I do not 9 understand exactly what the New Rule requires, and I do not understand how to implement it. For 10 example, a patient may ask me about the recovery time for a medical abortion. If I answer that 11 question, the Secretary may find my practice to be out of compliance with the New Rule’s ban on 12 encouraging and promoting abortion. In short, I do not understand what I can and cannot do or 13 say under the New Rule.

14 20. The New Rule also provides that I could not provide a referral to a clinic where 15 my patient could receive comprehensive information about abortion or schedule that service.
16 Instead, even if one of my patients requests a referral to an abortion provider, I would only be 17 able to provide “a list of . . . primary health care providers (including providers of prenatal care).”
18 Id. But that list need not include any abortion providers, and if it did, those providers would also 19 have to be “comprehensive primary health care providers,” and could not make up more than half 20 the list. Id. § 59.14(d)(4). Crucially, “[n]either the list nor project staff may identify which 21 providers on the list perform abortion.” Id. In Yolo County, there are currently no providers of 22 abortion services who also provide comprehensive primary health care. This would dramatically 23 delay – if not altogether block – my patients’ access to information about their desired care.

24 21. Furthermore, the New Rule does not include a clear exception to its prohibition on 25 abortion referral – even for instances where my patient would suffer health consequences if she 26 continues her pregnancy. Instead, the New Rule states that “[i]n cases in which emergency care is 27 required, the Title X project shall only be required to refer the client immediately to an 28 appropriate provider of medical services needed to address the emergency.” Id. § 59.14(b)(4).

1 But, the New Rule provides only one example of an emergency warranting such a referral: an 2 ectopic pregnancy. Id. § 59.14(e)(2). In all other circumstances, the Final Rule would only allow 3 me to offer the list of primary care providers. In my view, there are many other types of medical 4 emergencies that would warrant referral to an abortion provider or other medical provider. But 5 frankly, I do not understand the contours of this “emergency care” exception, and I would not 6 understand when I was, or was not, permitted to refer patients under this exception. This New 7 Rule would therefore put my patients in a dangerous situation and/or put me in an untenable 8 situation –if a pregnant patient presented with any emergency other than an ectopic pregnancy, I 9 would be discouraged from providing her with an abortion referral for fear of violating a rule that 10 I do not understand.

11 22. It may be useful to consider one detailed hypothetical on how this New Rule 12 would affect me and my patients. I will assume for this hypothetical that CommuniCare 13 continues to receive Title X funding. Let’s say a young woman comes into our clinic. Perhaps she 14 has been raped and is pregnant, or has a medical condition that increases the risk of pregnancy, 15 feels she is too young to start a family, or simply does not wish to be pregnant. She wants to 16 terminate the pregnancy immediately and discreetly. She speaks limited English, has no internet 17 access in her home, and only has access to public transportation. She has an income under the 18 federal poverty level and taking time off work puts her at risk of losing her job. Under the New 19 Rule, I could not provide her with a referral to an abortion provider. The most I could do is give 20 her a “a list of . . . primary health care providers (including providers of prenatal care),” only half 21 of which provided abortions. In other words, I could not give her complete and accurate 22 information. When she asks for a referral to an abortion provider, I would instead have to give her 23 a list that was at least half non-abortion providers. She would have no easy or effective way of 24 researching the providers on this list, nor determining which might actually provide abortions. As 25 there are no primary care providers that also provide abortions in Yolo County, my patient would 26 have to travel to Sacramento. Even if my patient could determine which primary care provider 27 also provided abortions, she would still have to get an appointment and make it to Sacramento, 27 28 miles from one of our health center locations. It would likely be difficult for her to get an

1 appointment in general and it may be especially difficult for her to get an appointment when her 2 work allows her to travel. By public transportation, it would take over two hours one-way on 3 three different buses to get to the Sacramento provider. In other words, the inaccurate and 4 incomplete information the New Rule would force me to provide would work extraordinary 5 hardships on my patient. These hardships would dramatically delay, or even block, her access to 6 care. This type of delay for a woman seeking a time-sensitive service like abortion counseling
7 increases the impact on, and risk to, her health. Furthermore, my provision of false information 8 would hurt our provider-patient relationship.

9 23. Furthermore, this interference with my patient relationships would have far-10 reaching and devastating effects. As described above, many of my patients have had negative 11 interactions with the healthcare system in the past. The Final Rule—under which I would have to 12 remain silent or misrepresent options to patients—would erode patient trust. Ultimately, the Final 13 Rule would discourage Title X patients from visiting CommuniCare at all, thereby compounding 14 health disparities.

15 24. For these reasons, I could not ethically or legally provide family planning services 16 to Title X patients under the new rule. In addition, even if CommuniCare tried to comply with the 17 New Rule, it would be impossible to do so. As set forth above, some aspects of the Final Rule are 18 so ambiguous that I cannot ascertain how to comply with them.

19 25. The New Rule also requires that “[a] Title X project must be organized so that it is 20 physically and financially separate . . . from activities which are prohibited under section 1008 of 21 the Act and §§ 59.13, 59.14, and 59.16”—i.e., abortion counseling, abortion referral, and any 22 advocacy activities that promote abortion or seek to make it more available. 42 CFR § 59.15. The 23 Secretary must determine whether a Title X program is compliant by considering the following 24 factors:

- 25 (a) The existence of separate, accurate accounting records; (b) The degree of 26 separation from facilities (e.g., treatment, consultation, examination and waiting 27 rooms, office entrances and exits, shared phone numbers, email addresses, 28 educational services, and websites) in which prohibited activities occur and the extent of such prohibited activities; (c) The existence of separate personnel, electronic or paper-based health care records, and workstations; and (d) The extent to which signs

1 and other forms of identification of the Title X project are present, and signs and 2 material referencing or promoting abortion are absent.”

3 But the Rule gives no direction about what weight each factor carries or how exactly this 4 separation would be judged. I have no way of operationalizing these factors. Without any 5 concrete guidance, this provision effectively requires us at CommuniCare to provide any abortion 6 counseling, referrals, and care in completely physically and financially separate facilities, with 7 separate personnel, from the rest of our programs – or risk noncompliance with Title X.

8 26. It would be fiscally and logistically impossible for CommuniCare to physically 9 and financially separate our Title X programs from our other programs. To implement physical 10 separation, we would have to double, effectively, every clinic site. We estimate that it would cost 11 several million dollars over the next year to separate our Title X program from our other 12 programs. These costs are prohibitively high, especially given that we are a nonprofit, federally 13 qualified health center.

14 27. Finally, if CommuniCare continued to receive Title X funds, we would have to 15 provide assurance “satisfactory to the Secretary . . . that the project does not provide abortion and 16 does not include abortion as a method of family planning.” 42 CFR § 59.13. Again, I do not 17 understand what would constitute a “satisfactory” representation to the Secretary, and of course 18 CommuniCare would never run afoul of any federal (or any other) reporting requirements – this is 19 yet another reason why we do not understand and could not comply with the New Rule.

20 28. For these reasons, if the New Rule is implemented, it is highly unlikely that 21 CommuniCare will continue to accept Title X funding. Without Title X funding, CommuniCare 22 will not run the outreach services that inform young people of its teen clinic services, nor provide 23 teen clinic services at all. Our patient population will not have access to the same quality and 24 quantity of reproductive and health care services. Some Yolo County residents may lose access to 25 our services altogether.

26 29. In the absence of Title X funds, CommuniCare will likely have to cut providers 27 and staff. We have had to cut employees in the past due to decreases in federal funding. The 28 elimination of Title X funds would mean further staff reductions, which will reduce the quality

1 and quantity of health services that are currently provided in Yolo County. Without 2 CommuniCare's family planning services, many of our community's youth will have nowhere 3 else to go for essential sexual and reproductive health care.
