1 Plaintiffs, Rachel Condry, Jance Hoy, Christine Endicott, Laura Bishop, Felicity Barber, and 2 Rachel Carroll (collectively, “Plaintiffs”), hereby submit their Reply In Further Support of 3 Plaintiffs’ Notice of Motion and Motion for Class Certification and the Memorandum of Points and 4 Authorities in Support (ECF No. 161, “Pltfs. Memo” or “Plaintiffs’ Motion” or “Motion”); and in 5 Reply to Defendants’ Response in Opposition to Plaintiffs’ Motion for Class Certification (ECF No.
6 163, “Defs. Resp.” or “UHC’s Opposition” or “Opposition”). In support of Plaintiffs’ Motion, 7 Plaintiffs filed the Declaration of Kimberly Donaldson-Smith (ECF No. 162-1, the “Pltfs. Decl.”).
8 Filed concurrently herewith is the Supplemental Declaration of Kimberly Donaldson-Smith in 9 Support of Plaintiffs’ Motion (the “Pltfs. Suppl. Decl.”), with exhibits thereto.

10 I. INTRODUCTION

11 Reading UHC’s Opposition, one would believe that this is a lawsuit against providers for 12 rendering subpar medical services to a proposed class of patients. (See, e.g., Defs. Resp. at 2:18-13 19, “While Plaintiffs may disagree with the quality and scope of the services rendered in certain 14 instances, the fact remains that no common injury exists across the putative classes.”). It is part of 15 UHC’s Opposition, as well as its Daubert motions directed to Plaintiffs’ experts, seek to conjure 16 up speculative and irrelevant arguments about “individualized inquiries” and try to revive its 17 already-rejected arguments.

18 By affirmatively seeking summary judgment as to the Plaintiffs, UHC made a calculated 19 assessment about its significant risk with respect to class certification.<sup>1</sup> In the wake of the 20 foundational holdings provided in the Court’s Summary Judgment Order (Dkt. 146, “SJ Order”), 21 and the facts that have now proven out in discovery, class certification must be granted. UHC’s 22 insureds, across the board (all plans, company-wide, nationwide), were subject to its policies, which 23 did not give any member meaningful access to CLS coverage, including meaningful access to 24 UHC-identified lactation providers. In response, UHC deploys boilerplate typicality and 25

26 <sup>1</sup> See Pltfs. Memo at fn. 1; see Gessele v. Jack in the Box, Inc., No. 3:10-CV-960-ST, 2012 U.S.
27 Dist. LEXIS 120377, at *7 (D. Or. Aug. 24, 2012) (“by filing a motion for summary judgment prior 28 to class certification, the defendant accepts the potential unfairness of one-way intervention”).

1 commonality assertions and disregards the evidence and the SJ Order. The compelling facts and 2 precedent, however, impel certification of the Classes.

3 II. UHC’S POLICIES FOR CLS COVERAGE, NOT “INDIVIDUALIZED ISSUES,” 4 WERE UNIFORM AND DRIVEN BY FINANCIAL INTERESTS

5 As detailed in Plaintiffs’ Motion (see, e.g., Section II.C), discovery has established that 6 insureds were subject to UHC’s ACA-deficient policies governing CLS coverage.<sup>2</sup> UHC’s 7 Opposition does not refute the substance of Plaintiffs’ arguments about its CLS policies, which 8 UHC acknowledges have not changed throughout the Class Period. (See, Pltfs. Memo at 6-7).

9 First, UHC determined that it would not establish a network of identified lactation 10 providers.<sup>3</sup> UHC’s Opposition, which is reminiscent of both of its motion to dismiss and its 11 summary judgment filings, and notwithstanding the Court’s SJ Order, repeats UHC’s stance that:
12 “Defendants have thousands of in-network providers of lactation services, with OB/GYNs, 13 pediatricians, and lactation specialists making up the majority of these providers” (Defs. Resp at 14 5:18-6:2). Similarly, UHC states that “women are exposed to lactation services from various 15 provider types—including OB/GYNs, pediatricians, and lactations specialists—throughout their 16 pregnancy, during the hospitalization associated with delivery, and during expected postpartum 17 visits.” (Defs. Resp. at 6:8-11.)<sup>4</sup> UHC did not affirmatively build a network of identified-lactation 18 consultants, or even provide the identities of any network providers who were in fact providing 19 CLS (other than the 380-designated providers, discussed infra at Section III).

20 Second, UHC admits that its Preventive Care Services Coverage Determination Guideline

22 <sup>2</sup> See, e.g., the CDG applies to all members of the ACA and Lactation Services Classes. Pltfs.
Decl., Ex. 11, Declaration of Janice Huckaby, UHC Regional Chief Medical Officer, ¶ 6.

23 <sup>3</sup> UHC’s policy was that it did not “need to develop a specific, broad strategy for contracting with 24 lactation specialists since [it has] pediatricians and OB’s [sic] that already provide this service.”
(Pltfs Decl., Ex. 23, UHC_110054-56); see also Plaintiffs’ Motion at pgs. 8-9, and Section II.D.

25 <sup>4</sup> UHC relies on Dr. Henry Lee, who UHC also proffered during the summary judgment 26 proceedings (Defs. Resp. at 6:11). Plaintiffs are filing a Motion to Limit Consideration of the 27 Expert Report of Dr. Henry Lee. As stated in that motion, among other reasons, Dr. Lee’s opinion 28 should be afforded no weight because having in-network certain provider-types does not equate to relevant proof or evidence that UHC’s pediatricians and OBGYNs were, in fact, providing CLS and that UHC made members aware of the identity of the actual providers (not the “provider types.”)

1 (“CDG”) is the policy that “defined the scope of the [CLS] benefit” for UHC insureds. (See, 2 Plaintiffs Motion at 6-7, citing to UHC’s Resp. to Rog. 1.) The CDG identifies certain procedure 3 codes (and a diagnosis code for certain of those procedure codes) as the only codes eligible for 4 coverage without cost-shares when billed as described in the CDG and in accordance with 5 Defendants’ policies and procedures. Notably, UHC’s Response reveals the improperly narrow 6 construct and inadequacy of the CDG as it applies to CLS.<sup>5</sup> Likewise, UHC confirmed in discovery
 7 that the CDG impermissibly incorporated the preventive versus diagnostic care construct for CLS 8 and services billed outside the CDG were processed as non-preventive. (Id. at 7, citing to Resp. to 9 Rog. 2 (“If such services are billed using codes in a manner not set out in the CDG, they will be 10 processed as non-preventive care.” (Emphasis added)). UHC has offered such policies in its 11 defense and as proof of its purported compliance with the ACA. The policies are squarely at issue 12 and the resolution of such issues is no different within or among the Classes. See, Defs. Resp. at 7.

13 Third, in UHC’s own words, its policy is, and has been, that “preventive services....will be 14 eligible for coverage without cost-shares provided that such services are provided by a network
 15 provider...” Pltfs. Decl. at Ex. 10, UHC Resp. to Rog. 3 (emphasis added). UHC did not cover 16 out-of-network CLS providers because of its policy that its existing network pediatricians and 17 obstetricians provided CLS, of course notwithstanding that they were not actually identifiable or 18 identified by UHC as CLS network providers to insureds. That is the policy the Classes challenge.

19 Why would UHC implement blatantly narrow and non-compliant Policies? Financial 20 interests. A UHC email dated 1/27/2012 concerning the ACA women’s preventive benefits stated

 22 <sup>5</sup> UHC states that: “Plaintiffs also seek to sweep in thousands of potential members whose claims 23 were billed by providers under medical codes that do not on their face indicate that lactation
 24 services were provided and could reflect a different type of service.” (Defs. Resp. at 3:4-6; 19.) 25 First, the rendering of CLS services may be indicated by the use of numerous codes that, on their 26 face, indicate lactation-related issues (which are not listed in the CDG, Pltfs Decl. Ex. 12 at pg 39) 27 and codes relating to breast issues including when combined with other codes that may indicate a 28 CLS visit. See, Dr. Hanley’s Amended Report (Pltfs. Decl., Ex. 34) and, see also, fns. 2 and 3 in the Amended Report of UHC’s expert, Ms. D’Apuzzo (Pltfs. Decl., Ex. 18). At bottom, there is not one code for CLS, there are many and they need to be accounted for. Second, the only reason that such a condition would exist, with the need to sweep in claims of thousands of potential class members, is that UHC’s CDG provided for narrower coverage than is consistent with required practice.

1 that “we must identify key areas of opportunity to minimize the financial risks associated with these 2 new guidelines.” See Pltfs. Decl., Ex. 26, UHC_011837. To “minimize” the financial risk, UHC 3 assumed $0 incremental costs/financial impact specifically for breastfeeding support counseling 4 services (Pltfs. Suppl. Decl. Exhibit 1).

5 At $0 financial impact, UHC coverage could only consist of coverage included as part of 6 delivery during the hospital stay and wellness visits with pediatricians and obstetricians. UHC could 7 not meet its $0 financial impact assumption if it contracted with lactation specialists and lactation 8 specialist groups, and then identified to its members those lactation consultants as well as coverage 9 guidelines that were ACA compliant for CLS coverage. UHC’s objective was for CLS coverage to 10 cost UHC nothing; that would have been impossible if UHC had implemented policies that gave 11 members access to and utilization of CLS preventive coverage.

12 Plaintiffs’ theory is not novel or untested, and it is a circumstance that UHC may be familiar 13 with: Coverage policies and guidelines, including specifically CDGs, that are tainted by an insurer’s 14 financial interest are fundamentally flawed and non-ERISA and state law compliant, and expose an 15 insurer to liability to a class of insureds. On March 5, 2019, Chief Magistrate Judge Spero in Wit v.
16 United Behavioral Health, Case No. 14-cv-02346-JCS, (USDC ND Cal.), a behavioral health
17 benefits class action against United Behavioral Health (“UHB”) which manages behavioral health 18 services for UHC members, issued Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law [Wit FOF, Dkt. No.
19 418, Excerpts at Exhibit 2 to Pltfs. Suppl. Decl].<sup>6</sup> In Wit, the plaintiffs asserted that they were 20 improperly denied benefits for the treatment of mental health and substance use disorders because 21 UHB Guidelines, namely its Coverage Determination Guidelines and Level of Care Guidelines, did 22 not comply with the plan terms and/or state law. (Wit FOF, Exhibit 2 at pg. 1). In discussing UBH’s 23 development of its Guidelines, Judge Spero addressed that “the process UBH uses to develop its 24 Guidelines...is fundamentally flawed because it is tainted by UBH’s financial interests.” Id. at pgs.

26
27 <sup>6</sup> Because of its length, Plaintiffs attach excerpts of the FOFs reflecting the pages cited herein 28 (Exhibit 2, Pltfs. Suppl. Decl.). The FOFs in their entirety are on the Wit docket, Case 3:14-cv-02346, USDC ND. Cal., Dkt. 418, or can be provided by Plaintiffs upon request.

1 90-94, ¶¶ 174 – 185. Judge Spero found that such flaw arose from UBH’s consideration of the 2 general economic impact of increasing or decreasing coverage, and its setting coverage policies
 3 under such construct where UBH placed representatives of its Finance and Affordability
 4 Departments in key roles in the Guidelines development and approval process. Id. at 90-94, ¶¶ 174 5 – 185. The Wit FOFs state that “financial incentives ...infected the Guideline development 6 process” (id. at ¶ 180), and that the “Guidelines were riddled with requirements that provided for 7 narrower coverage than is consistent with generally accepted standards of care gives rise to a 8 strong inference that UBH’s financial interests interfered with the Guideline development 9 process.*” (Id. ¶ 183, emphasis added).

10 In sum, UHC’s CLS coverage policies – which UHC admits have not changed throughout 11 the Class Period to the present (see Pltfs. Decl., Ex. 10, UHC Resp. to Rogs. 1-4)) – are grounded in 12 UHC’s: 1) narrow construct of CLS (including its unsupported preventive/diagnostic care 13 construct); 2) baseless position that all pediatricians and obstetricians provide CLS; and, 3) stance 14 that CLS is simply part of delivery and post-partum wellness visits sufficiently covered by 15 physicians who provide post-partum wellness visits and hospital delivery. Supra; see also, Defs.
 16 Resp. at 8:2-16; 16:8-11.<sup>7</sup> The resolution of whether UHC’s CLS-related policies and procedures 17 constitute ACA-mandated coverage for CLS presents questions common to the members of the 18 Lactation Services Class and ACA Class.

19 Similarly impactful to UHC’s financial interest is its use of the four Remark Codes for CLS 20 (similarly impactful because the four Remark Codes are issued for denied claims). Although UHC 21 tacitly acknowledges the import of the SJ Order (“[e]ven assuming that the denial codes at issue 22 were confusing in the abstract...”, Defs. Resp. at 3) with respect to the Remark Codes, UHC then 23

24 <sup>7</sup> See Defs. Resp. at 8:11-15 and 16:8-14 stating that “Additional members likely received lactation 25 services through global billing and post-partum wellness visits....” (emphasis added). Contrary to 26 Defendants’ vague and unsubstantiated assertions that “additional members likely received [] free 27 in-network services through hospital-based programs” (Defs Resp. at 16:8-12), the outpatient one-28 on-one lactation services at Hartford Hospital are not free. See Souza Decl., Ex. D (Mar. 15, 2019
 Marshall-Crim Dep.), at 98:2-99:8 (There is a fee for “an outpatient one-to-one visit” the fee ranges “depend[ing] on what services are rendered.”)

1 deems the Remark Codes only “confusing in the abstract” requiring “individual assessments of each 2 member’s circumstances—including whether additional contact with Defendants occurred or an 3 appeal was filed—to determine whether the alleged procedural violation prevented a “meaningful 4 dialogue.” Id. See also, Plaintiffs Motions to Limit with respect to Ms. D’Apuzzo and Mr. Miller.
 5 There is no “in the abstract” – the Remark Codes were used on EOBs for CLS, and, as the Court 6 held, each was confusing in the context of the CLS EOB. UHC’s position, if adopted, would 7 eviscerate the fundamental purpose of the ERISA procedural requirement, which aims to remove 8 such subjective determinations offered by UHC. UHC must reprocess the CLS claims without any 9 of the offending Remark Codes.

10 III. UHC DID NOT DEMONSTRATE MEANINGFUL ACCESS

11 Plaintiffs established that UHC’s failure to provide meaningful access to network CLS 12 providers is determinable on a national class-wide basis. After the issuance of, and guided by, the 13 Court’s SJ Order, Plaintiffs adduced evidence through discovery that only network providers with 14 the 380 Lactation Specialist code are identifiable (i) by UHC as providing CLS and (ii) are 15 identified to insureds as such by UHC. Nationwide UHC has only 122 unique current “380” 16 network providers and 22 unique terminated “380” providers (since 2012). In addition, for 20 17 states, UHC’s data reflected that it had no “380” network providers identified during the Class 18 Period. See, Plaintiffs’ Motion at pg. 9-12. On its own, the de minimus providers identified by 19 UHC as 380 network providers is conclusive of the systemic lack of UHC-identified network 20 lactation providers. Likewise, UHC’s call center was telling members to contact their network 21 providers and not making insureds aware of the identity of any network provider that in fact 22 provided CLS.<sup>8</sup>

23 Faced with the undisputed facts, UHC claims that Plaintiffs are required to prove a negative 24 – that each of the thousands of OB/GYNs and pediatricians in UHC’s network are NOT providing

26 <sup>8</sup> See, Ex. 19, UHC_007982, June 19, 2014 email stating: “How does the Call Center advise 27 members calling in for lactation consulting providers?” reveals that UHC’s policy was to have the 28 “Call Center” “advise[] member[s] to contact their in-network OB/GYN/Pediatrician as only INN [in network] benefits are covered.”). See also, fns. 11-12, infra.

1 lactation services.<sup>9</sup> On this issue, UHC’s Opposition directs the Court and Plaintiffs to “see 2 concurrently filed Daubert motions”. See Defs. Resp. at 18:6. On April 4, 2019, Plaintiffs filed 3 oppositions to UHC’s Daubert motions directed to Plaintiffs’ four experts: Mr. McGlone [ECF No.
4 181], Dr. Hanley [ECF No. 184], Dr. Morton [ECF No. 182], and Dr. Labovitz [ECF No. 183].

5 UHC has never refuted Plaintiffs’ demonstration about the 380-identified providers by 6 offering any relevant information. For example, UHC has failed to provide the name of each 7 provider in their network who, in fact, provides CLS. Nor has it explained how it identified those 8 providers to the members of the Classes throughout the Class Period. Instead, because UHC cannot 9 do that, UHC ignores the 380 designation, and cursorily argued that proof of its insureds getting 10 access to coverage can be gleaned from its claims data. See Defs. Resp. at 8:1-17, citing to and 11 relying on Mr. dos Santos, one of UHC’s proffered experts. That analysis, however, is (i) 12 irrelevant, because it (again) skirts the relevant inquiry of whether the network CLS providers were 13 identified as such to insureds by UHC; and (ii) is flawed in its conclusion about UHC’s breadth of 14 network by failing to consider the claims data relative to claims expected, which is an appropriate, 15 necessary comparison or assessment, if one is to render an opinion about breadth of a network in 16 the manner that UHC has offered. See Plaintiffs’ Memo at pg. 15; see also, Plaintiffs’ Motion to 17 Limit Testimony and Opinions of Mr. dos Santos, filed concurrently herewith; and, Plaintiffs’ 18 Opposition to UHC’s Daubert directed to Dr. Labovitz [ECF No. 183].

19 The relevant facts are simple and not in dispute. UHC only used a specialty code “380” to 20 designate lactation specialists and lactation specialist groups.<sup>10</sup> UHC admitted that “[t]he on-line 21 directory pulls [ ] information from the National Data Base where contracted providers’ 22 demographic information, including specialty, is stored”, and therefore, only the network 23 providers “identified by the specialty code ‘380’...have been electronically searchable as

24
25 <sup>9</sup> See Defs. Resp. at 5:21-6:2 (“Defendants have thousands of in-network providers of lactation 26 services, with OB/GYNs, pediatricians and lactation specialists making up the majority of those 27 providers.”) This mantra is no more persuasive or supported now than it was at summary judgment.

28 <sup>10</sup> See Pltfs. Decl. Ex. 10, UHC Resp. to Rog. 6 (In response to Plaintiffs’ request for the identity of every lactation specialist and lactation specialist group in UHC’s network during the Class Period, UHC responded, “Such providers are identifiable in Defendants’ systems by the specialty ‘380’”).

1 “Lactation Specialists” in Defendants’ provider directory since March 2014.” Pltfs. Decl., Ex. 10, 2 UHC Resp. to Rog. 7 (emphasis added). Prior to March 2014, 380-providers did not display on-3 line. Id. UHC also admitted, when asked how members are directed to network CLS providers (id., 4 UHC Resp. to Rogs. 7, 9) that: “members are encouraged to seek the ACA-mandated service from 5 network providers, including in their plan documents, and are specifically directed to ask their 6 network provider about the ACA-mandated service.”<sup>11</sup> (Emphasis added). Moreover, when asked 7 what actions UHC took to provide UHC insureds with the ability to identify in-network 8 “providers of lactation and breastfeeding services, support and counseling” (so, the question 9 was not limited by the terms “lactation specialist” or “lactation specialist group” or “380”), UHC 10 referred back to Rogs. 7 and 9, which, according to UHC, “reflect the manner in which Defendants 11 identify in-network providers for their members and insureds.” Id., UHC Resp. to Rog. 12.<sup>12</sup>

12 In addition to UHC’s own admissions, Plaintiffs had their expert, Daniel McGlone, do a 13 data analysis and geospatial mapping of the “380” Providers, since, again, those are the only 14 lactation providers who are identified by UHC both internally and to UHC’s members. See, Expert 15 Report of Plaintiffs’ Expert Daniel McGlone (Pltfs. Decl. Ex. 29) and the maps attached thereto 16 (id., Ex. 29-A). UHC’s arguments with respect to Mr. McGlone’s analysis are telling: UHC does 17 not contend that there are 380-identified providers other than the 144 unique providers discussed in 18 McGlone’s work. Instead, Defendants suggest that the data McGlone uses is insufficient by not 19 capturing all the thousands of (faceless, nameless) lactation-services providers allegedly in UHC’s 20 network. (See, UHC’s Daubert Motion re: McGlone, ECF No. 179 at 6 (“[E]vidence . . .
 21 demonstrates that thousands of women did receive lactation services from pediatricians, OBGYNs, 22

23 <sup>11</sup> UHC cited to the SOP for Member Services Breast Pump Benefit (Pltfs Decl. Ex. 27) which 24 states on UHC_003918-3919 that “[i]f a member asks [a]bout lactation counseling and support [ ] 25 [ ]et the member know the following: ...Educate the member so he or she can discuss specific 26 services with his or her doctor....The member's doctor may offer these services, or have 27 relationships with other practitioners in his or her area to provide this care.”

28 <sup>12</sup> Similarly, when asked to identify the “Documents relating to the ‘availability of providers of lactation counseling services in Defendants’ networks”, UHC referred “Plaintiffs to their responses to Interrogatories Nos. 6, 7 and 9, which refer to the “380” lactation specialists and “SOPs”. (Id., Resp. to Rog. 13).

1 and others who are not self-described lactation specialists . . . .”); Defs. Resp. at 6.

2 That is sophistry. But, more to the point, such sophistry is precisely the gamesmanship that 3 UHC has wrongly thrust on its members for over 6 years. It must stop.

4 IV. UHC’S “INDIVIDUALIZED ISSUES” ARGUMENTS ARE UNPERSUASIVE <sup>13</sup>

5 UHC admits that each member of the Classes sought lactation services (Defs. Resp. at 1:6).
6 Defendants even reference the concept of “threshold determinations regarding the parameters of the 7 benefit...on a class-wide basis.” (Id. at 15:22-23). But, as is their wont, Defendants attempt to 8 conjure up “individualized claims with unique factual and legal underpinnings.” (Defs. Resp. at 9 1:5). The “individualized issues” are a primary basis for UHC’s arguments with respect to 10 commonality and typicality. See Defs. Resp. at 9, 14-23, and 25. UHC’s arguments, however, are 11 contrary to the facts and case law, as well as the Court’s SJ Order when viewed based on the record 12 and evidence of Defendants’ conduct and policies, see supra, and Plaintiffs’ Motion.

13 An initial fundamental point, that should dispense with UHC’s speculations about impact on 14 insureds and “individualized issues,” is that without a UHC-identified network of lactation 15 providers, UHC had to (i) cover, without cost-sharing, all CLS claims (irrespective of network 16 status) under the ACA and (ii) have policies consistent with that construct.<sup>14</sup> Absent that, UHC 17 insureds were subjected to coverage under an ACA-deficient policy. Plaintiffs seek, therefore, the 18 processing of CLS claims under a corrected policy that reflects the proper scope of CLS and 19 coverage for CLS without cost-sharing. See, Plaintiffs’ Motion at fn. 6 citing the CDG’s 20 acknowledgment that ACA preventive care services may include coverage for out-of-network

21 _____
22 <sup>13</sup>Plaintiffs submitted legal authority and evidence in support of numerosity and the adequacy of 23 proposed Class Counsel. See Pltfs. Memo at III.C.3-4. UHC does not contest either, and therefore 24 waives any contrary argument. Erickson v. Courtney, 702 Fed.Appx. 585, 588 (9th Cir. 2017).

25 <sup>14</sup>The ACA sought to remove the financial barrier that could otherwise lead an individual to not 26 obtain preventive services, see, 29 CFR 2590.715-2713(a)(3) (titled “Coverage of preventive health 27 services”), under which insurers were relieved of their financial responsibility to insureds (that is, 28 insurers could impose cost-sharing) only if the insurer “has a network of providers to provide [CLS].” The 10/23/2015 FAQ Part XXIX, Q2 (Pltfs. Decl. at Ex. 6) confirms that imposing cost-sharing on insureds is “premised on enrollees being able to access the required preventive services from in-network providers.” (Emphasis added).

1 providers with no member cost-sharing (i.e., covered at 100% of Allowed Amounts without 2 deductible, coinsurance or copayment).

3 UHC’s “individualize issues” have been rejected by courts in ruling on class certification
4 motions. In Trujillo, et al. v. UnitedHealth Group, Inc., et al., CV 17-2547, 2019 U.S. Dist. LEXIS
5 21927 (C.D. Cal. Feb. 4 2019)(Appeal filed, 02/20/2019), insureds alleged that “United has failed 6 to ensure that benefit claim determinations are made in accordance with governing plan documents, 7 failed to establish reasonable claims procedures, and failed to provide adequate notice of adverse 8 benefit determinations in violation of [ERISA]”. Id. at *2. In Trujillo, the prosthetic coverage at 9 issue is “based on an individualized assessment of the member’s functional needs”, and the 10 coverage criteria is set out in UHC’s CDG specific to prosthetics. Id. at *3. Further, in opposition to 11 the Trujillo plaintiffs’ revised proposed class definition, the defendants raised, as UHC does here, 12 among other things, that: (1) coverage involved, for prosthetic devices, “a series of billing codes” 13 and that a prosthetic limb will typically have ten to twenty different L-codes; and, (2) “providers 14 sometimes ignore that guidance and use the miscellaneous codes....” (Id. at *4-5).

15 ERISA requires that, where appropriate, plan provisions must be “applied 16 consistently with respect to similarly situated claimants.” 29 C.F.R. § 2560.503-17 1(b)(5). Accordingly, if this Court were to find that the terms of United plans and 18 ERISA claim processing and notice rules required United to act in a certain fashion, 19 and another court found that those same terms and rules required United to act in a 20 different fashion, United would face an “incompatible standard of conduct.” To 21 avoid such a result, the class should be certified pursuant to Rule 23(b)(1)(A).

22 Trullio, at *21-22; see also Hill v. UnitedhealthCare Ins. Co., 2017 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 218139, at 23 *25-27 (C.D. Cal. Mar. 21, 2017) (finding individual inquiry into each patient’s circumstances to 24 determine whether lumbar procedure should be covered under patient’s insurance was unnecessary
25 where “the main issue of the case... challenges Defendant’s policy on its face, not Defendant’s 26 individualized coverage decisions”)(emphasis added).<sup>15</sup>

27 <sup>15</sup> Stafford v. Carter, 2018 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 34266, at *13-17 (S.D. Ind. Mar. 2, 2018) (rejecting 28 defendants’ arguments that “whether a particular individual is receiving a standard of care treatment for their medical conditions is an individualized inquiry” and instead finding that common questions arise out of defendants’ standard of care, whether plaintiffs had been denied certain treatments, and whether such denial caused injury).

1 Even if a review of medical records or gathering information from patients and providers, 2 including objective data such as diagnoses codes were required to reprocess claims, as UHC
 3 contends, it does not defeat class certification. See, e.g. Josephat v. St. Croix Alumina, LLC, 2000
 4 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 13102, at *39 (D.V.I. Aug. 7, 2000) (recognizing “the existence 5 of individual issues such as the medical histories of each potential class member,” but finding 6 that the individual issues did not “predominate over the common issues such as Defendants’
 7 liability”); Whitney v. Khan, 2019 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 38288, at *17 (N.D. Ill. Mar. 11, 2019) 8 (finding class certification appropriate where potential class members could be identified based on 9 objective data in medical records); see also Rikos v. Procter & Gamble Co., 799 F.3d 497, 525-26 10 (6th Cir. 2015) (finding class ascertainable where it “can be discerned with reasonable accuracy 11 using Defendants’ electronic records..., though the process may require additional, even substantial, 12 review of files”) (emphasis omitted), cert. denied, 136 S. Ct. 1493, 194 L. Ed. 2d 597 (2016).<sup>16</sup>

13 Des Roches v. Cal. Physicians’ Serv., 320 F.R.D. 486 (N.D. Cal. 2017) is also instructive. In 14 Des Roches, plaintiffs alleged that defendants made use of “guidelines” which violated the terms of 15 plaintiffs’ health care plans, in that the guidelines were far more restrictive than generally accepted 16 standards of care in determining medical necessity for mental health and substance abuse 17 treatments. Id. at 491. The court rejected defendants’ argument that “determining whether each 18 class member’s claim would have been granted under the proper Guidelines ‘would require a highly 19 fact-intensive inquiry of individual claims—which precludes class certification under Rule 23’” id.
 20 at 497, instead finding that, “even if the Guidelines were not dispositive in every case, this does not 21

22 <sup>16</sup> The cases cited by UHC are inapposite (Defs. Resp. at 15, fn 6). In Phillips v. Sheriff of Cook
 23 County, 828 F.3d 541, 554-555 (7th Cir. 2016), an action involving detainees claiming deliberate 24 indifference on the part of the jail with regard to dental care, decertification because defendant 25 implemented policies that aligned with national standards resulting in there “no longer [being] a 26 single identifiable remedy that could help all class members.” Phillips, 828 F.3d at 548-9. In 27 Schilling v. Kenton Cnty., Ky., No. 10-143-DLB, 2011 WL 293759, at *10 (E.D. Ky. Jan. 27, 2011), 28 a § 1983 action alleging due process and Eighth Amendment violations on behalf of inmates denied medical care, the court determined it would need to determine whether the inmates “were deprived of constitutionally adequate medical care or subjected to physical and mental abuse in violation of their constitutional rights.” Id. at *19.

1 change the fact that, assuming Plaintiffs’ allegations are true, Defendants applied an incorrect
 2 standard in evaluating every class member’s claims.” Id. at 500 (emphasis added). Small 3 variations are “not material to the theories upon which Plaintiffs’ claims [were] based.” Id. Rather, 4 the “harm alleged []—the promulgation and application of defective guidelines to the putative class 5 members—is common to all of the [] class members.” Id. (internal quotation omitted).<sup>17</sup>

6 Also instructive is Wit. In Wit, the class was certified, notwithstanding that at trial (i) the 7 parties would need to address and resolve whether the UBH Guidelines adhere to generally 8 accepted standards of care when there is no “single source of generally accepted standards of care” 9 (Wit FOF, Pltfs Suppl. Decl. Exhibit 2 at 27 ¶ 57); (ii) conduct “extensive testimony on the 10 generally accepted standards of care that apply to patient placement in the context of behavioral 11 health treatment” would be given (id. at 33 ¶ 70, emphasis added); and address “that in every 12 version of the Guidelines in the class period, and at every level of care that is at issue in this case, 13 there is an excessive emphasis on addressing acute symptoms and stabilizing crises while ignoring 14 the effective treatment of members’ underlying conditions” (id. at 42 ¶ 82).

15 The foregoing cases also render other of UHC’s “individualized issues” irrelevant. UHC 16 points to Plaintiffs’ (and presumably class members’) varying contact with UHC, in terms of 17 customer service calls, and, invokes (but misconstrues) the Court’s summary judgment ruling.
 18 (Def. Resp. at 1:14-19).<sup>18</sup> As discussed supra and in Plaintiffs’ Motion, the evidentiary record

 20 <sup>17</sup> Defendants make only a passing reference to key cases as cases that “involved challenges to 21 discrete provisions in guidelines or plan terms that applied to every claim.” Defs. Resp. at 20:27-22 21:4 (emphasis in original), citing Des Roches and Wit. As explained, the cases did not involve any 23 more discrete provisions than are involved here, and in fact involved documents and issues 24 analogous to the policies here. Des Roches, 320 F.R.D. at 497-504 (rejecting various commonality 25 arguments advanced by health plan because of common questions created by the health plan’s 26 development and use of claims guidelines); Wit, 317 F.R.D. at 127-129 (common issues were found as to whether UBH’s CDG met generally accepted standards and whether it breached its fiduciary duty by using improper standards to assist in coverage determination). See, e.g., In re Conseco Life Ins. Co. LifeTrend Ins. Sales & Mktg. Litig., 270 F.R.D. 521, 529-30 (N.D. Cal. 2010) (commonality satisfied as common question was interpretation of the standard written policy).

27 <sup>18</sup> Even if UHC were correct (which it is not), UHC would still need to demonstrate that the 380 – 28 identified in-network UNH providers located in a geographically proximate location constituted an adequate network justifying their imposition of denying claims and cost-sharing for claims in that

1 demonstrates that any such contact is not relevant due to UHC’s failure to identify CLS network
 2 providers to insureds (other than the de minimus number of 380 Providers), and its Policies, 3 including its “SOP”, that results in UHC conveying misinformation to insureds about what UHC is 4 actually required to cover for CLS under the ACA. See, e.g., fns. 11-12, supra.

5 Finally, UHC’s repeated proposition about the availability of a gap exception (see, e.g., 6 Defs. Resp. generally at 2, 8:14-17, 16) is a false narrative. First, UHC’s process for getting a gap 7 exception (see Huckaby Decl., Dkt. 119-1, Ex. M at ¶6) is wholly inadequate as it is devoid of any 8 specific timeframes in which UHC is required to conduct its network investigation and issue a 9 response, if any. Second, whether a member sought a gap exception, received one or had one 10 rejected is irrelevant. What is relevant is if the member had cost sharing imposed or was not 11 provided coverage by UHC for a CLS claim. Third, The ACA did not say that insurers were to 12 provide a “gap exception” as coverage for Women’s Preventive Services. None of UHC’s 13 “individualized issues” give rise to a basis for which the Classes should not be certified.

14 V. EACH PLAINTIFF HAS ARTICLE III STANDING

15 Defendants’ arguments concerning Article III standing (Defs. Resp. at 24:3-16) overlook 16 that the Court granted summary judgment to Plaintiffs Condry, Hoy, Endicott, Bishop, Barber, and 17 Carroll with respect to their claims asserted under Count I, the Claims Review Class claims, and to 18 Plaintiffs Hoy and Bishop with respect to their claims asserted under Count II, the Lactation 19 Services Class claims. Plaintiffs have already been adjudicated to have suffered an injury-in-fact.

20 In addition, like millions of UHC insureds nationwide each Plaintiff may, by their own 21 choosing or through a decision made by her employer (or a partner’s/spouse’s employer), again 22 become insured by UHC. Moreover, accepting Defendants’ reasoning that any Plaintiff (even if she 23 is not a current plan member) lacks standing to seek declaratory and injunctive relief “create[s] a 24 difficult situation for insureds” and undermines the purpose of insurance. Johnson v. Hartford Cas.

25
 26 area. If UHC could make such showing, despite the de minimus number in an area, it would not, 27 however, result in a carve-out of those insureds from the class. Rather, for example, pointed 28 inquiries would be made to those limited number of insureds about whether they sought any information from UHC about the 380-network providers prior to receiving out-of-network CLS.

1 Ins. Co., No. 15-cv-04138-WHO, 2017 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 77482, at *31-32 (N.D. Cal. May 22, 2 2017) (holding that plaintiff had standing for injunctive relief because if again insured by Hartford,
 3 plaintiff “should be able to have confidence that Hartford will obey the law in the future if he shows 4 that it is violating it now”). In Johnson, the Court rejected Hartford’s argument that Johnson (who 5 was not a policy holder), was not “realistically” threatened by future harm, because he would (i) 6 need to purchase insurance from Hartford again, but also (ii) be so unlucky as to suffer another loss.
 7 Id. Furthermore, it would not be easily discernable, “absent substantial investigation,” as to whether 8 Defendants are complying with the law until the same circumstances arise again. Johnson, 2017
 9 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 77482, at *30. The court in Farar v. Bayer AG, No. 14-cv-04601-WHO, 2017 10 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 193729, at *21-22 (N.D. Cal. Nov. 15, 2017), cited Johnson, supra, for the 11 proposition that “[A]ny consumer of Hartford’s insurance products would not be able to easily 12 discern whether it was complying with the law... As a result, Johnson has adequately demonstrated 13 the prospect of future, repeated harm” and held that the plaintiffs had Article III standing.

14 Defendants cite to Sanchez v. Capital Contractors, Inc., No. 14-cv-02622-MMC, 2017 U.S.
 15 Dist. LEXIS 87585, at *7 (N.D. Cal. June 7, 2017). However, Johnson is directly on-point, and 16 Plaintiffs are unlike the former employees in Sanchez who did not express any likelihood of 17 returning to work or being injured in the future by the employer’s practices. Id. Here, UHC insures 18 millions nationwide and any Plaintiff may, by their own choosing or through a decision made by 19 her employer (or a partner’s/spouse’s employer), again become insured by UHC.

20 Therefore, Plaintiffs have a reasonable prospect of future, repeated harm that satisfies the 21 standing requirements for injunctive relief.<sup>19</sup>

22 VI. PLAINTIFFS’ ACA AND LACTATION SERVICES CLASSES ARE NOT 23 EXPANDED AND ASSERT A COMMON INJURY

24 UHC contends that Plaintiffs expanded their class definitions. In their SAC, Plaintiffs’

25 <sup>19</sup> If the Court were to find that Plaintiffs lack Article III standing to obtain declaratory and 26 injunctive relief, Plaintiffs respectfully request that the Court grant Plaintiffs leave to amend to add 27 plaintiffs who are currently insured by Defendants with respect to the declaratory and injunctive 28 relief. See Steinley v. Health Net, No. CV 18-5458 PSG, 2018 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 223853, at *17-18
 (C.D. Cal. Dec. 4, 2018).

1 ACA Class included “[a]ll persons who...are or were participants in or beneficiaries of [ ] health
2 plan[s]...administered by Defendants [ ], who did not receive full coverage and/or reimbursement
3 for [CLS].” (ECF No. 78, at 60.) Similarly, Plaintiffs’ Lactation Services Class included “[a]ll
4 participants and beneficiaries in one or more of the ERISA employee health benefit plans 5 administered by Defendants [ ] for which Defendants fail and refuse to provide payment or 6 reimbursement for [CLS] without cost to such participants and beneficiaries.” (Id.) See also, 7 Plaintiffs’ Opp. to UHC’s Daubert motion directed to Dr. Labovitz [ECF No. 183]. The definitions 8 expressly include all persons—not limited by in- or out-of-network, claims submitted or not 9 submitted—who were not covered for CLS as a no-cost preventive services. The adjustment in 10 wording of the class definitions—which did not differ in any material respect from the two 11 corresponding SAC class definitions—is an “unremarkable feature of class actions.”<sup>20</sup> 12 Furthermore, for the reasons set forth herein and in Plaintiffs’ Motion, the resolution of whether 13 UHC’s CLS-related policies and procedures constitute ACA-mandated coverage for CLS presents 14 questions common to the members of both the Lactation Services Class and ACA Class. Relatedly, 15 with respect to the members of the ACA and Lactation Services Classes who did not submit claims, 16 UHC also argues (Defs. Resp. at 20:12-15) that “Plaintiffs offer no suggestion” for identifying this 17 group...and data on live births is not a proxy.” There are, of course, several objective and 18 appropriate ways to identify the members of the class, including, for example, by using UHC’s 19 claims data for breast pump claims submitted during the Class Period-- breast pumps are directly 20 correlated with insureds who initiate breastfeeding.

21 VII. CONCLUSION

22 For the reasons set forth herein and in Plaintiffs Motion, Plaintiffs respectfully request that 23 the Court grant their Motion for Class Certification.
