CIVIL CASE NO. 19 0834

JURY TRIAL DEMANDED

COMPLAINT

PRELIMINARY STATEMENT

1. The Fourth Amendment to the United States Constitution, as incorporated Case 5:19-cv-00834-JLS Document 1 Filed 02/26/19 Page 5 of 20 against the states by the Fourteenth Amendment, protects the people from unreasonable seizures of their person. The Fourteenth Amendment, also protects persons from unequal treatment under the law, as well as the Fifth Amendment. The Plaintiff in this matter was surrounded by police and detained based on an individual at Citizen's bank trying to conceal and hide a reasonable suspicion, of an illegal act (furtherence of a crime), namely bank robbery (18 USC § 2113) via the internet. The crime was triggered via story by Andrew Maykuth for the Philadelphia Inquirer, philly news targeting Cutler and that it was "using its vast financial resources to enter the bully pulpit by publishing a series of false and defamatory statements an online article ... to smear an individual who was in its view an enemy of the deep state, released to the internet on 11DEC2019 and printed 12DEC2019 which was a link to individuals that carried out the crime, never even mentioning Lisa Michelle Lambert. The story also made light that ordinary individuals should not be elected, and slandered every Jeffrey Cutler and Tax Collector in the United States. Plaintiff's emotional distress, terror, apprehension, anxiety, and humiliation, damage to his reputation and potential long term carreer as an elected official. It also failed to get a release form for the shirt which a copyright was previously applied and the story tried to act as a barometer of when someone is religious and hide all types of political misconduct including mail fraud.

2. This Court has jurisdiction over the subject matter of this Complaint under 42 U.S.C. § 1983 and 28 U.S.C. §§ 1331, 1343(a)(3), 1343(a)(4), and 1367(a).

FACTUAL ALLEGATIONS

- 1) On the evening of February 12, 2019, an Individual Defendant made a false police report (20190212M241O) at the Citizen's Bank in the Giant Supermarket (116 W Township Line Road).
- 2) The defendant called the police when Mr. Cutler showed the bank manager he had placed a redacted copy of a statement in a document in the United States Court of Appeals case #18-3693 (document # 003113157254 page 10). This is related to CFPB complaint #190213-3828773.
- 3) At minimum 3 police cruisers were positioned outside the Giant supermarket.
- 4) Mr. Cutler was surrounded by police officers from the Haverford police department subject to view and suspicion of everyone in the Giant supermarket at the time. Only 2 officers were listed on the report #20190212M2410.
- 5) Mr. Cutler was prevented from assisting his mother (who has difficulty hearing) or helping review documents being signed. This has been an ongoing effort by members of the Klu Klux Klan or other secret society to target Mr. Cutler for being Jewish and people around him because he challenged Obamacare starting Dec 31, 2013.
- 6) Mr. Cutler talked to the police officer (Thomas McDermott) and showed him documentation he had with him that demonstrated that he previously run as a write-in candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania (Page 15 – Philadelphia Metro Newspaper, October 24, 2018).

started from the checking account on the same day the money was credited to the money market account.

8) At no time did the police question Mr. Cutler's mother about what was going on during the confrontation, while in view of Mr. Cutler. The office of the branch manager is approximately a 10' x 10' enclosure.

9) Mr. Cutler was handed a no trespass letter signed by the branch manager (Ralph Rinn) by the haverford police. This letter was similar to the letter he was handed by the East Lampeter Police officers on October 2, 2017 when he was removed illegally from his apartment at 67 Cambridge Village, Lancaster Pa. 17602, in lieu of a legal eviction (which is the basis of case 18-3693). On May 13, 1985, 5 black children (ages 7-13) were murdered when the FBI furnished 2 bombs as a form of eviction.

10) The realization that the Individuals surrounding Mr. Cutler were carrying firearms, and tasers provoked feelings of terror, panic and anxiety in Mr. Cutler.

11) Mr. Cutler asked officer McDermott if he was related to ADA McDermott of the Philadelphia district attorney's office. Mr. Cutler had previously reported Bank and Insurance fraud to the office of the FBI, and got a CEASE & DESIST email from the FBI, mentioning not to report those crimes to the FBI and not report those crimes to the ADA either.

he tried to make a complaint about Citizen's bank, but was ignored in this effort.

13) On 14FEB2019 Mr. Cutler reported the false Police report by Citizen's bank, #20190214M2515, no investigation has been started to his knowledge. This demonstrates unequal protection under the law. A crime in Chicago is investigated (Jussie Smollet) while this crime is not investigated. A violation of the United States Constitution Ammend 5, equal protection.

14) The incident of February 12, 2019 between Individual Defendants and Mr. Cutler has caused mental and emotional suffering to Mr. Cutler, including panic attacks causing Mr. Cutler to physically shake, and nightmares.

15) Approximately three days following the incident of February 12, 2019, Mr. Cutler contacted the Police to inquire about information concerning the investigation of the incident and was informed that there were no records pertaining thereto.

STING INVESTIGATION

Brown resigns 'under protest'

Her decision follows her sentencing in the bribery case. Date of a vote on her replacement is to be set

By Angela Columbo
 PHILADELPHIA (AP) — State Rep. Vanessa Lowery Brown resigned from office Tuesday, saying she was leaving public service "under protest" as she appeals her conviction on bribery and other charges.

In her resignation letter, the Philadelphia Democrat highlighted the words of the Dauphin County judge who last month sentenced her to 24 months of probation, noting that he expressed concerns about the undercover sting investigation that led to her conviction and downfall.

Nonetheless, Brown wrote, she recognizes that the state constitution prohibits anyone convicted of bribery, perjury and other "infamous crimes" from serving in the legislature.

"The court's finding that the investigation and prosecution targeted overtures of racism and political expediency is only the first step in the appropriate vindication of my civil given and constitutional right to be treated fairly under the law," Brown, 52, wrote in her letter to Speaker Mike Turzai (R., Allegheny).

She added, "I'm distressed by this. See BROWN on A1.

Some have not saved enough; others were poor before they aged. About 23 pct. live in poverty.

At the end of the month, when her friend has run out, Alice Foley, 77, will call a friend in her Germantown neighborhood and ask if she can drop by for a meal.

Never once as Foley spent a lifetime complying with the American dream — work hard, get rewarded — did she foresee a time when her refrigerator would be nearly empty when the calendar hit July 30.

"I didn't just not prepare for poverty in old age," said Foley, who lives on a monthly income of a little more than $600 in Social Security disability payments and nearly $40 in food stamps, an amount about $400 below the $1,120 federal poverty level for a single person.

Foley never married and has no children. She said, "With two degrees, I never expected to be living like this."

A JOB MANY FIND UNNECESSARY

Man's write-in vote for job led to countywide tax chaos

Post is easy to claim in towns that don't use the role.

By Andrew Mayhew
 PHILADELPHIA

Jeffrey Cutler is living proof that a write-in vote in an election can make a huge difference.

Cutler was elected tax collector in 2012 in East Lampeter Township, Lancaster County, with one vote — his own write-in vote. Though East Lampeter had not had a tax collector in decades — the county did the job — Cutler insisted he was now an elected official under the law, and began to work as township tax collector.

Cutler made a bath of the job, say local and county officials. Tax revenue he collected was not passed along promptly to taxing authorities. Some taxpayers were billed twice. Others in arrears were billed as fully paid. Dozens of fully paid taxpayers were erroneously termed delinquent and referred for collection, remaining their credit.

Taxpayers in East Lampeter who went to the location listed on tax bills to settle accounts found themselves before the puzzled manager of a well-staffed facility, who said township Cutler had set up shop in a vacant Holiday Inn.

"It was about an eight-month accounting nightmare trying to figure out what was real and what was not," said Andrew Martin, the Lancaster County treasurer. She and other local and county officials alleged Cutler failed to perform his duties, and persuaded a Lancaster County judge to strip him of office in 2017.

Cutler's case triggered the introduction of a bill to allow towns to eliminate the "backlog" tax collector's position, removing the position from the Pennsylvania State Tax Collectors Association, which regards the proposal as an existential threat to an independent elected office. In a hearing on the bill, some

HIGHER EDUCATION

Temple board condemns Hill, defends free speech

It took no action against the professor, whose remarks at the U.N. have been called anti-Semitic.

By Lisa C. Johnson
 PHILADELPHIA

Microphone statements made in recent weeks by university leaders Temple University's board of trustees on Tuesday backed its own condemnation of professor Marc Lattin over his controversial comments on Israel and the Palestinians, but stopped short of taking any action against him and defended his right to free speech.

In a four-paragraph statement released at the end of their first public meeting since the flare erupted late last month, the trustees condemned their "disappointment, displeasure, and disagreement with" Lattin's remarks, "bearing closely to the social reaction last month from our university president Richard M. Engert."

But the trustees also said, "We recognize that Professor Hill's comments are his own, that his speech as a private individual is entitled to the same constitutional protection of any other citizen, and that he has through subsequent statements expressly rejected anti-Semitism and anti-Semitic violence."
